Dr Patrick Allman-Ward, CEO of Dana Gas, said:

"We are extremely pleased that the outstanding receivables in the KRI from 2019 and 2020 have been fully paid down, with the Company now having no outstanding long-term receivables from the KRI. The levels of collections in both the KRI and Egypt have been exceptional over the first ten months of the year due to the rise in oil prices. Continuing timely payment of invoices and the settlement of outstanding receivables is so important to providing us with the confidence to carry on with our expansion plans in the KRI and Egypt. Together with the rebound in hydrocarbon prices this will also boost our revenues, profitability and cash position."
